

2018-2019
LETTERS REFERENCING
“The Bible: Origin & Transmission” series

MARCH 2018

The Bible origin series is a masterpiece of scholarship.

As a teacher of the Septuagint I was fascinated by the depth of the knowledge of Greek.

The professor is able to grasp and articulate the nuances of the language as no one else.

I am beginning to enjoy the religious teaching as well.

Athens, Greece

OCTOBER 2018

As soon as I began to listen to the Bible origin series I knew who the speaker was.

This professor has collaborated with some of the giants in the Greek New Testament scholarly community.

I appreciate the fact that he confines his presentations to information which is available to the general public.

I respect his decision to remain virtually anonymous.

Above all I appreciate that he faithfully presents the simple Gospel and total grace without wavering.

No wonder people are actually saved through this ministry.

Heraklion, Crete

JANUARY 2019

The masterful presentation of “The ‘True’ Hero with a Thousand Faces” impressed me so greatly that I listened to “The Bible Origin” series.

I listened to all 12 of them and I am in awe.

Every Christian, or anyone who is interested in the Bible,

or even linguistics needs to listen to these.

I assure you, you've never heard anything like this before.

The knowledge of Greek is extremely impressive.

The presenter (who is obviously remaining virtually anonymous) has a clear grasp of the subtleties and nuances of the language.

Thessaloniki, Greece